Recovery is important. Each of us needs to recover nightly from our busy days, and so we prioritize sleep. Athletes need to recover from intense races or competitions. People who suffer injuries need time to recover their strength and get back into peak shape.

Your skin needs to recover just as much as your brain or your muscles. Though you might not think about it, your skin spends all day regulating your body and protecting you from a variety of stressful environmental factors. Do you let it recover appropriately?

There's no better time to recover than when you're sleeping at night, which is why Neigene Advanced Recovery Night Cream works while you sleep to enhance skin elasticity and promote youthful skin.
